

THE LITERARY REVIEW
NEW YORK, NEW YORK
7 JULY 1923
(page 816)

The Diary of a Drug Fiend

By ALEISTER CROWLEY

A terrible story, yet one of hope and beauty, a revelation of a startling abyss and of a saving power. The feeling grows as one reads that this story is true not only of one weakness but of all kinds of human weakness. It is not the painful pages which haunt the reader; the vision of strength sublime is what remains. $2.00, postage extra.

E. P. DUTTON & CO., 681 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK