

Speaker Rainey Girds For Possible Silver Rebellion

Leader of House Wants Interests To Get Together

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(UP)—Speaker Henry T. Rainey today put himself in position to lead a possible silver rebellion in the house with a statement that silver sentiment is overwhelming in congress.

Rainey apparently timed his statement against President Roosevelt's return from his Florida vacation with a hint for early adjournment of congress.

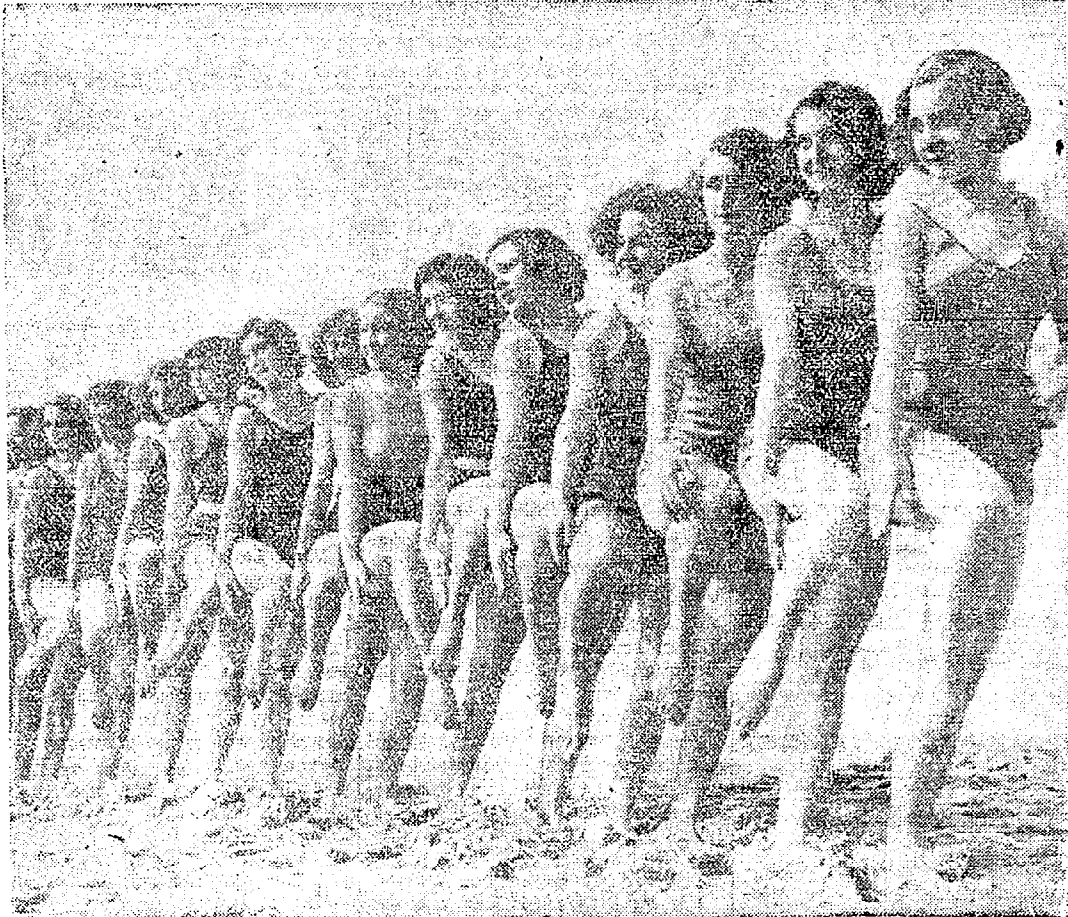

He coupled his plea for silver legislation with a demand for investigation of the so-called "gold bloc" if the treasury continued with its investigation of silver speculation. "I will be glad to see the various silver groups in congress united on a silver bill," said the speaker, pledging his assistance in obtaining consideration of any agreed-upon measure.

Rainey thumped the silver drum as Secretary of Treasury Henry J. Morgenthau, Jr. and Ferdinand Pecora, senate stock market inquiry counsel, moved to continue their probe of silver holdings. Morgenthau recently charged that various silverites were "not disinterested" in re-nationalization legislation.

"There is an overwhelming sentiment in the house and I think also in the senate for silver," said Rainey, "and this sentiment reflects the feeling of the country generally."

Rainey charged that a "gold bloc" was actively at work trying to prevent broadening of the currency base to include silver.

HOW HEARD CAN CENTIPEDE BITE ASKED OF JUDGE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 13.—(UP)—Just how much pressure a centipede can exert with its jaws remained an abstract question of speculation today so far as the district court here is concerned.

Miss Emily Williams, suing a theater for $2,500, claimed a centipede bit her while she was attending a performance several years ago so hard she "could feel jaws biting."

Expert medical and myriapodal witnesses had been called to testify, but District Judge Claude Weaver dismissed the suit under the statute of limitations.

Stock Exchanges in Denial of Schemes

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(UP)—The country's stock exchanges tonight denied emphatically that they were attempting to prevent legislation for effective regulation.

Twenty-five leading exchanges, headed by the New York Stock Exchange, joined in a statement asserting that they opposed the Fletcher-Rayburn bill simply because "it contains unworkable and refractory provisions and goes far beyond what is necessary for the regulation and supervision of stock exchanges."

Steps From Prison Ready for New Start

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—(UP)—Edward G. Lewis, one time sensational reality operator who ran a small "stake" into an estimated $25,000,000 fortune, came back from federal prison today ready to "make several more fortunes."

Lewis was paroled from McNeill's Island after serving five years on conviction of charges of misusing the mails. While in prison he served as librarian and as editor of the prison weekly, "The Island Lantern."

LEAVES HOSPITAL

A. S. Williams of Verdi, who recently underwent a major operation at St. Mary's hospital, returned to his home today. Physicians stated that he is very much improved.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, April 13.—(UP)—Unaccompanied by any ballyhoo, Aimee Semple McPherson arrived at Port Aransas today to rest and fish.

Towns Are Flooded

MONTREAL, April 13.—(UP)—Overflowing rivers, caused by ice jams and heavy rains, seriously flooded several villages in eastern Quebec today and were threatening many others. Scores of homes were washed away, highways inundated and thousands of acres of farm land flooded. No loss of life has been reported.

Lack of Crime Causes Recess

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP)—For the first time in 40 years, an Erie county grand jury had to recess because of the lack of criminal cases. The day the April grand jury was sworn in a week's recess was ordered when District Attorney Walter Newcomb disclosed that only three cases were on the calendar.

5 Auto Mishaps Reported Here

Five automobile accidents were reported to Reno police yesterday.

Amelia Hawkins' machine was hit by a car as the latter backed from the curb on Center street. Miss Hawkins reported that the car did not stop.

Cars driven by Josephine Gildone and T. C. Cairus collided near the traffic lights at Center and Second streets. No appreciable damage was reported to either machine.

Mrs. A. M. Smith of 334 Fourteenth street, Sparks, and Jack Peters of KOH, reported that their cars were involved in a collision on Fourth street. Howard Moffat and George Southworth were driving cars which collided on Center street, Moffat reporting damage to the trunk on his automobile.

Frank Sheldon filed a report that a truck which failed to stop side-swiped his car at Fourth and Sutter streets and did considerable damage to the front part of his car.

Cadets March When Pacifists on Parade

AMHERST, Mass., April 13.—(UP)—Massachusetts State college students in the uniform of the reserve officers' training corps today heckled and threw firecrackers at Amherst college students and girls from Smith college who paraded in a peace demonstration.

In protest against the anti-war parade Colonel Charles A. Romeyn, in charge of the R. O. T. C. unit at State college, marched his 300 uniformed men four times from the college to the center of the town.

Aged Woman Missing

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—(UP)—Mrs. Anna Deering, 70, who has been missing mysteriously for two weeks, was hunted by police tonight after her son, Fred C. Deering, musician, fought desperately against arrest.

Deering, who allegedly told officers that "mother has been stabbed," was placed in psychopathic ward for observation.

Sportsman's Wife Gets $15,000 Heart Balm

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—(UP)—Mrs. Emily R. C. Davis, daughter of a Calexico hotel owner, was awarded a $15,000 jury judgment today for the loss of the love of her husband, Emmett S. Davis, wealthy sportsman.

The verdict was returned against Davis' sister, Mrs. Dorothy Conant, and her husband, Frederick W. Conant, well-to-do aviation man and yacht enthusiast.

Mrs. Davis charged that the Conants caused an estrangement by prejudicing Davis against her. They were married at Yuma, Ariz., December 18, 1932, and separated February 7, 1933.

Policeman's Widow Says She Killed Him

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—(UP)—Mrs. Rhoda Cobler, 36, widow of Patrolman George C. Cobler, tonight confessed, according to police, administering poison to her husband which caused his death.

After being questioned most of the day the matronly woman broke into tears and declared that she gave Cobler the poison in a cup of milk last Thursday, but that she "only meant to break him off the drinking habit."

Independent Air Companies Seek Senators' Help

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(UP)—Independent companies, seeking air mail contracts, enlisted the aid of democratic senators, governors and national committeemen to bring pressure on the post office department. It was revealed today by the senate air mail investigating committee.

Senator Warren R. Austin, republican, Vermont, opponent of the administration's air mail policy that led to cancellation of contracts, already has placed in the record the charge that the independents organized a "propaganda society" in an attempt to wrest contracts from the larger lines.

Testimony today showed that Joe Wolf, democratic national committeeman for Minnesota, filed a brief with the post office department in behalf of the Hanford Tri-State Airlines which was seeking a contract for the route between Omaha and Minneapolis. Austin said Walter Conway, attorney general of South Dakota, aided the Rapid Air Lines in an attempt to get contracts.

Senate Passes 'Soak Rich' Law

(Continued from Page One) said he felt this to be the most effective way of obtaining a redistribution of wealth.

The threat of a presidential veto is contained in the senate amendment imposing a tax on oils. President Roosevelt opposed the tax on the grounds that it was contrary to the spirit of the Philippines independence act. The new bill called for a tax of 5 cents per pound on oils.

Although the house voted to leave intact the present list of excise taxes, the senate eliminated the tax on soft drinks, on furs selling for less than $20, and on jewelry selling for less than $25. The tax on colored stem wooden matches was raised from 2 to 5 cents per 1,000.

'Black Magic' Brings Lawsuit for Libel

LONDON, April 13.—(UP)—Magic, black or otherwise, today failed to help Aleister Crowley, author, in his libel action against Miss Nina Hammett, based on passages in her book, "Laughing Torso."

The case was decided for the defendant in the suit after lurid testimony which ended suddenly when the jury indicated it had heard sufficient. Justice Swift in addressing the jury commented:

"Never have I heard such dreadful, horrible, blasphemous, abominable stuff as that produced by this man describing himself as the greatest living poet."

Crowley's suit was based on the charge that the book imputed he practised "black magic."

Editors and business managers for University of Nevada publications were chosen yesterday by the publications board. Forrest Bibb was appointed editor of the Sagebrush and LaRue Stark business manager of the publication, while Ned Morehouse was elected editor of the Artemisia and Angelo Urrutia business manager of the yearbook.

These men will succeed the present heads of the publications at the end of the semester and will also automatically become members of the publications board. The newly elected editors and business managers, Cathleen Haffey, present secretary of the board, and two members chosen by the senate will form the board next year. At present the board is composed of James Cazier (chairman), Cathleen Haffey, Ed Montgomery, Bill McMenamin, Bill Crowell, Robert Creps and Donald Brown.

The four men chosen by the board yesterday have all completed the required term of two years' work on the publications and will have senior standing next semester. Morehouse, who was eligible for the editorship of both the Artemisia and the Sagebrush, is a five-year student in the engineering department. The others are enrolled in the college of arts and sciences. All four have been active in extra-curricular work.

"Junior cut day" will be held next Wednesday, according to Roy Frohlich, chairman of the committee in charge of the celebration. The class will hold a picnic at Lake Tahoe on that day and will be excused from all classes.

Letters will be mailed to high school girl graduates who plan to enter the university next fall by the Associated Women Students in order to arrange for their enrollment in the university. Women students on the campus will be assigned to each registering student and will be required to make all necessary arrangements for them.

Women enrolled in the archery class of the women's physical education department will start their annual interclass tournament next week, with two representatives, chosen from each class, and will play off the intra-mural tournament the following week. Mary Swett, archery manager, is in charge of the tournaments.

Five women students were announced as members-elect of Cap and Scroll, honorary women's organization, yesterday at the Associated Women Students' meeting.

Those chosen to the society were Ruby Hoskins, Blanche Keegan, Nell Lozano, Sarah Graves and Florine Frank. Cap and Scroll is considered to be the highest honor to be given to a woman student and an average of 2.3 leadership in one college activity and general activity work are necessary for admission.

A resolution favoring holding the Associated Women Students' presidents' convention on the University of Nevada campus in 1935 was also passed at the meeting. Marthine Solares and Nell Lozano, delegates to this year's convention at Tucson, Ariz., will invite the women to hold the meeting at Nevada during the convention at Tucson next week.

Voting on the question of changes in the campus traditions scheduled for yesterday was postponed by Jim Wallace, president of the A. S. U. N. The proposed changes will be posted on the bulletin board this week and the voting will probably take place next Friday.

Dillinger Grand Jurors Freed of Contempt Charge

CROWN POINT, Ind., April 13.—(UP)—Six members of a Lake county grand jury which criticized Judge William J. Murray in the "wooden pistol" escape of John Dillinger, went home tonight, free from contempt of court citations.

Judge Murray, who placed the contempt citations against the grand jury a week ago, dismissed them today with the brief explanation that he believed they "intended to disrespect."

The jury, impaneled and instructed by Judge Murray, criticized the jurist for failure to order Dillinger removed to state prison from Crown Point jail and hinted that politics may have been involved in his refusal.

His action in citing the jurors created a furor in Indiana legal circles. County Prosecutor Robert G. Esch announced his approval of the report and said he would defend the jurors in court if necessary.

Judge Murray said members of the jury had told him that they intended no disrespect to the court and that they thought that in criticizing the court they were following the instructions the judge gave them to "get at the bottom" of the Dillinger escape last March 3.

Mrs. Massie to Stay In Italy, She Says

GENOA, April 13.—(UP)—Mrs. Thelma Portescue Massie, recovering from an attempt at suicide, said today she never wanted to return to the United States.

The pretty young victim of the 1932 assault case in Honolulu added that "life is too sweet here." "I am so entranced with Italy, the people and natural beauties," she said, "that I have decided to apply for Italian nationality. I never want to return to the United States again."
