

More War Poetry

Originally published in the December 1917 edition of The International under the pseudonym of Herbert J. Wilcox.

Old England is our kind and true ally.
Teacher says not to remember the books
About all the battles in days gone by,
For you can't think how bad it all looks.
And if I see an Englishman without demur,
I will smile at him and be careful to Say "Sir."

HERBERT J. WILCOX (Aged 14)